Altogether, political observers do not feel that the President's visit has added appreciably to Democratic chances of carrying New York State.

Legislative Field Wider

In his afternoon speech the President said in part:
"I want you to notice that the field "I want you to notice that the field of political action is widening about us in a way that fairly daunts the judgment of thoughtful men. We used to think that we saw the field of legislation tolerably well defined, but legislation tolerably well defined, but indefinitely widened that find has not only greatly widened but indefinitely widened. There are a great many social questions now with which legislation has to deal, very profound and radical questions.

"There are questions of justice, there are questions even of moral health; one of the things that America is beginning to perceive is that a court of law, for example, is not necessarily a court of justice. Law too seldom has any heart in it, too seldom has any bowels of compassion, too seldom has any visitors at the bazaar last of the first cousin to the late President. Wanted Social Justice

"Let me make an allusion, which may seem like a political allusion, but it is not so intended. The reason that the Progressive party was formed four years ago was that the large body of men who formed that party made up their minds that the party they were separating themselves from had not thought, out the questions of social thought out the questions of social justice. Is that not so? The programme of that new party, aside from the items that you would expect in all programmes, was a programme of social justice.
